BIOGRAPHY

I hold a BS in Pharmacy and a PharmD degree from Lebanese American University. During my university studies I was involved in many tasks as tutoring undergraduate students, supervising laboratory work, and advancing clinical skills. Also based upon my performance and grades I was given US AID grant for 50% reduction of my tuition for all the five years which was given for only five pharmacy students. In July 2006, I joined Lebanese International University as a part timer clinical assistant professor for Beirut and Bekaa campus and active advisor for different campuses. During my first teaching year I aimed at implementing my background to enhance and develop students information. Then in year 2007 I was promoted to a full timer instructor based upon my devotion to my courses taught. Then in year 2008 I was promoted to the Pharmacy Practice Coordinator for both Beirut and Bekaa campuses where I was responsible for developing the manuals, and coordinating the practices in different sites. Starting year 2010 I was appointed as the PharmD Coordinator where I was responsible to set the rules to contact hospitals, accept Pharm D Candidates, develop the manuals, and implement the courses. During my PharmD Coordinator, I aimed at raising the LIU name in the states where PharmD Candidates participated in two posters and I presented a poster as well. PharmD Candidates also presented their thesis by presentations in the Middle East where they proved highly qualified and competent. And starting Spring 2012 I was appointed as the Assistant Dean to report all administrative tasks to Dean. After this small introduction I found that education is a continuous process that does not end where I am looking forward for my first article publication. In the year 2015, I am promoted to Clinical Associate Professor
